Screen Suffolk opens in London

The Screen Suffolk deal which aims to bring film and TV productions to the county was officially launched at an exhibition in London on Tuesday night.

Contract holder Film Fixer joined the Focus exhibition at London's Business Design Centre – a two-day event aimed at the TV and film production industry. And on Tuesday the best of Suffolk was showcased to top production firms in a bid to attract them to Suffolk.

Screen Suffolk director Karen Everett said: "Screen Suffolk was greeted with real enthusiasm at Focus, the international production show.

"We've met around 100 production professionals – all of whom agreed that Suffolk has a great offer: brilliant production base accommodation, unit basing, incredible locations, and all so close to the film cluster of London.

"Added to this, those we met today agree that Suffolk's own talent, crews and facilities are a key attraction."

The deal means that companies looking to film in Suffolk will not have to negotiate with multiple authorities for permission to film, and will attract firms to both film on location, and use empty office space in the county as production offices.

When the tie-up was announced in July, councillors said the project would have a major impact on the economy, with tourism, catering and accommodation firms among those set to benefit, alongside existing Suffolk production firms.

Bentwaters owner Sarah Brown was at the launch speaking to production companies, while drinks from Suffolk brewers Adnams and Aspall were available for companies to enjoy.

Ms Everett added: "We were really pleased to see how attractive Suffolk's locations were considered, as we showcased them at our stand, and provided the portfolio on branded USB sticks to take away.

"Already we have had conversations about sourcing specific location requests, from those we met, as well as wider talks about realising scripts in locations across the county.

"We are very much looking forward to turning this interest into business as quickly as possible on behalf of Suffolk."

Film Fixer won the contract earlier this year and manages filming locations in 13 London boroughs including Camden, Islington and Southwark.

Company must pay £8,000 fine

A company which runs a chicken slaughterhouse must pay a total of £14,000 after pleading guilty to causing unnecessary suffering to 81 birds.

One Stop Halal, of Magdalen Street, Eye, was fined £8,000 by South East Suffolk Magistrates' Court in Ipswich following a case brought by the Crown Prosecution Service on behalf of the Food Standards Agency.

The case concerned the failure to cut, or properly cut, the carotid arteries of birds at slaughter between July 6, 2015, and October 14, 2015.

Some of the birds were subject to non-stun religious slaughter and would therefore have entered the scalding tank alive.

Others were subject to electric stunning and some birds were seen to be badly bled at post-mortem inspection.

As well as fining One Stop Halal, magistrates also ordered the company to pay costs of £6,144.26.
